Men's Gym

MEET TO END SATURDAY

The annual high school music contests, sponsored by the Extension Department of the University, began Wednesday, April 24, with the vocal divisions. Because of the large number of contestants, the meetings are held daily at Henry Clay High school, Memorial hall, and the Men's gymnasium.

The judges for all the contests are: Vocal—Joseph A. Leeder, director Ohio State University School of Music; Ernest G. Hessler, director of music in Cincinnati Public schools, and Barre Hill, widely known baritone concert and opera singer. Instrumental—Ralph E. Rush, director of music at the Cleveland Heights High school, Cleveland, Ohio; Ernest Williams, of the Williams School of Music, Brooklyn, N. Y., and William C. Bell, of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. Piano—Dwight Anderson, of the University of Louisville. Prof. R. D. McIntyre, of the University, Russell E. Bridges, and James A. Caywood will act as chairman at the various sessions of the festival.

Wednesday afternoon the contestants who had achieved a rating of first or superior in the contests gave a concert in the Alumni gymnasium. Following the close of Wednesday's program, the visitors were guests of Pres. and Mrs. Frank L. McVey at a tea at their home, Maxwell Place.

Last night the visiting musicians were guests at a production of Mendelssohn's famous cantata, "Elijah," given in the Men's gymnasium under the direction of Prof. Carl Lampert, head of the University Music Department, with the Men's and Women's Glee clubs and the University Philharmonic orchestra participating.

In the boys' glee club division held Thursday there were no contestants to receive the highest rating, or excellent. Excellent rating in the boys' glee club, division two, was given to Frankfort, Maysville, Georgetown and Bellevue.

Berea High school, Carlisle, Pleadome, University High and Owensboro were rated as superior in the girls' glee club in division two. No contestants were rated as superior.

Instructor Gives Illustrated
Lecture Depicting the Development in Domestic Architecture

An illustrated lecture on "New Materials and Methods of Construction as Employed in the Demonstration House of the Century of Progress Exposition" was delivered by Joseph Barron, lecturer in the University art department, at a convocation of students and faculty of the Engineering College in Memorial hall Wednesday morning.

The Century of Progress demonstration houses brought together two new innovations; first, in the appearance and employment of synthetic building materials, many were used which were formerly considered as industrial waste, and second in the employment of radical systems of construction.

For his illustrations, Mr. Barron drew upon his unique collection of photographs of the fair. During the winter of 1932-33, he made regular trips over the fair-grounds photographically recording the progress, especially that seen in the demonstration houses.

Two Men, Former Antagonists on Field of Battle, Meet Again Over Diplomatic Table

(Written Exclusively for The Association of College Editors)

In the early spring of 1917 a German corporal and a British lieutenant lay directly opposite one another in trenches on the petrified battlefield of Ypres. Eighteen years later corporal and lieutenant faced each other across diplomatic tables in Berlin: Hitler, dictator of 60,000,000 Germans, and Captain Anthony Eden, British Lord Privy Seal.

Throwing over the Treaty of Versailles with a proclamation, Hitler had ordered military conscription and demanded economic union with Austria, inclusion in the Reich of German-speaking areas of Czechoslovakia, an air force equal to Britain and France, an army to cope with Russia's and a navy of 400,000 tons.

Such was the ultimatum presented to Sir John Simon, barrister and British Foreign Secretary, and his aide the Rt. Hon. Robert Anthony Eden. They had flown from London to Berlin in an attempt to pacify the leader of a nation conscious of its re-awakened powers and its pride smarting under fifteen years of humiliation. European peace and disarmament had ended in a pitiful exposure of armed hatred and bitterness, and what Europe had

U. K. GOLF TEAM
BEGINS SEASON

Putters Meet Louisville in Initial Tilt; Strong Eastern Normal Four Is Next on Schedule

The University of Kentucky golf team opens its season this afternoon with a match with the University of Louisville in Louisville. Tomorrow afternoon they play the Eastern State Normal four at Richmond.

Little has been heard of the strength of the Falls City team but one of its members, Billy Woodford, is the State Intercollegiate champion. Eastern State is reputed to have one of the strongest, if not the strongest, teams in the state.

John Eversole, J. D. Haggard, Louis Hillenmeyer, and Charles Roggenkamp will make up the team that plays in Louisville and Richmond. Due to bad weather which halted playing, only one of the alternate players, Walter Hillenmeyer, has been chosen. The other alternate position will go to either Bill Hund, Jack Howard or James Kohler.

After Saturday's match there will be a slight lull in the schedule until May 4 when the team will go to Knoxville to play the University of Tennessee. On May 7 the University of Louisville will come here for a return match. The University of Dayton, Dayton, Ohio, will be played once there on May 9 and again here on the fifteenth. Between these two games Western State Normal will be met here on May 10. On May 16-17-18 the team will go to Louisville and play in the State Intercollegiate Championship. Dates for return matches with Eastern State Normal and Western State Normal have not been decided upon.

J. D. Haggard, the acting captain of the team, announced that the four players making up the team did not have permanent positions but that between matches round robin tournaments would be played between these players and the alternates to decide who will make up the players for the next match.

L. Cass Robinson Has Chief
Lead In "Counselor
At Law"

Guignol's sixth and final production of the season, "Counselor-at-Law" to be presented the week of April 29 at the little theater, will have a cast made up chiefly of members of the University faculty and student body.

L. Cass Robinson, geology instructor, leads the cast in the difficult role of George Simon, the part played by John Barrymore on the screen and Bela Lugosi in the stage production of the same name. Mr. Robinson will be remembered for his outstanding part in "What the Gulls Knew" as the hunch-backed lighthouse keeper.

Ruth Budd, member of the University Library staff, also has a leading role in the production. Miss Budd, a graduate of the University of Texas, is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority, and though this is her first appearance on the Guignol stage, she is not a novice in amateur productions. She will play the part of Regina, better known as "Rexie," secretary to George Simon. A new and original set has been erected for the last play of the season. There are nine different scenes. Through the efforts of Malcolm Shotwell and his assistants the scenes have been worked out so that the scenes may be changed in less than one minute. Frank Fowler, director of the Guignol, devised the new sets.

Lances, junior honorary, will hold initiation ceremonies at the Teapup inn at 5 p. m. today.

NEW REGIME

As is customary at this time in the session a new editorial staff takes charge of the Kernel. For years it has been the policy of this paper to undertake to represent the University both as to its students and faculty with fairness and due regard to the well-being of both. It is the purpose of the new regime therefore to continue the best of its ability to maintain this attitude.

Thus far there has been no faculty interference, and the Kernel has enjoyed the utmost freedom of expression of student viewpoint and we hope to be able to continue this policy. To this end, therefore, any advice or fair criticism will be daily appreciated.

The Kernel will endeavor to present news and information impartially on all questions of import upon the campus. There will be a continuation of the "Student Opinion" column on the editorial page, and there any student may express his views and ideas frankly on any subject that merits publication. This column will be edited to conform to recognized standards of newspaper publication.

We realize the need of a Student Union building at the University and will do all in our power to aid the erection of such a building. All campus organizations will be given support and publicity, but without favoritism.

We believe that an organized and efficient personnel bureau should be maintained for the express purpose of placing students in employment upon graduation. We will try to stimulate interest in all campus affairs, especially intramural athletics. We will do our best, with the cooperation of the students, faculty, and all concerned, to make the Kernel the best college newspaper in the nation.

MUSIC FESTIVAL

During the past two days and continuing thru today and tomorrow, the University has had and will have as its guests a large number of high school students of the state who are participating in the annual music contests sponsored by the department of University Extension. These students have gathered from all parts of the state to demonstrate their proficiency in vocal and instrumental music.

The Kernel takes this opportunity of welcoming these students to the Campus and hopes that all of them will enjoy their stay, both academically and socially. We desire that they will participate in the rich fellowship which we, as students of the University enjoy.

Such contests give the high school students of the state an opportunity for self-expression and a chance to acquaint themselves with their relative abilities as compared with those of other students of the Commonwealth. At the same time, through their contact with college people, a desire for the pursuit of higher learning is stimulated in the minds of these adolescents and many are constrained to attend a college when they graduate from their respective institutions.

The Department of University Extension is to be commended for rendering this service to the state in stimulating culture thru greater acquaintance with one of the higher arts. Such a service is appreciated by the people of the state and is of material benefit in drawing increased support to our university.

The students of the University should feel honored by the presence of these younger students and should accord to them the full privileges of the Campus, in order that their stay may be both pleasant and profitable. In this manner will these students get a finer conception and greater appreciation of our school.

Again students, we say welcome. May you enjoy your brief stay with us to such an extent that you will give first consideration to your state university in your choosing an institution in which to pursue your higher education when you leave high school walls.

A TEN-POINT PROGRAM FOR FRATERNITIES

Dean William L. Sanders, dean of men at Ohio Wesleyan University, in a luncheon address before the Indiana Interfraternity conference at Bloomington, outlined to the group a ten-point program which he believes would establish the American fraternity as an instrument of great educational value. He stated that America is heading toward the type of education generally associated with Oxford University and that the fraternity must adjust itself to the new mode in education. His program, as outlined, follows:

1. Establish an interfraternity council within the university.
2. Establish a faculty and alumni fraternity council to closer relate the fraternity with the university.
3. Unite the fraternity treasurers into a group that could promote cooperative buying among the houses.
4. Require monthly examination of financial accounts by a university official or professional auditor.
5. Sponsor periodical house inspections to eliminate fire hazards and unsanitary conditions.
6. Eliminate "hell-week."
7. Train pledge masters in the art of handling and guiding freshmen.
8. Hire housemothers to expand social privileges and improve living conditions.
9. Train social chairmen, and
10. Engage fraternity counselors as a means to better scholarship and as advisors.

Several points in Dean Sanders' program warrant elaboration. Fraternity finances have been discussed in this column before and the need for some kind of auditing was pointed out because of the ever changing membership and the unfairness of future members if a debt is allowed to accumulate. Fraternities are ever fearful of university control, but this feeling does not seem evident at institutions where the auditing of fraternity books by university officials is already in operation. At Ohio State, Dean Sanders said, the system has had a reverse effect and the various houses are thankful for the opportunity to receive assistance in the form of audits.

The advantages of the Dean's last point, the engaging of counselors who would live in the fraternity houses and act as tutors, have also been discussed here. At several institutions throughout the country, the tutorial trend has gained ground until it is now firmly established in the fraternal system. A counselor serves not only as an aid to higher scholarship, but as a means of carrying on traditions and of raising the standards in fraternal life.

If the proper type of men to act as tutors can be found, there seems to be no reason why groups on this campus should not give the plan a try.—Daily Student, U. of Indiana.

It has been more than a week since we took our shot at this task of writing. . . . Yes, says we. . . . There should have been a bit happening over the holidays. . . . Quite so, friends. . . . We dashed off to Atlanta for the vacation period with that bunch of incomparable good fellows—the track team. . . . It was worth two months of labor on the eider path for the jaunt down to the Georgia city. . . . Even the old timers of football fame, Joe Rupert, Harry Walker, Red Symphon and Ernie Nevers said it was the best trip had ever taken with the athletes. . . . Even Ralph Carlisle, varsity basketball, said his trip to New York did not compare with it. . . . And so on the night we might have about the Atlanta trip. . . . but we dare not. . . . we might incriminate ourselves or some of the boys. . . . Anyway here goes. . . .

Shades of Atlanta

Our surprise in seeing so many of the Kentuckians who chose that city as their vacation spot. . . . Mary Cary Maynard and her cortege of high school lads who cheered Kentucky on with futile victory yells. . . . The Moore and Ernie Shores courtship couple of Agnes Scott coeds, one of whom was Kadee Jane Allen Webb, who went here last year. . . . Ida Greenleaf with her group of admiring Kentucky trackmen. . . . Alphagam Logan Van Meter walking arm in arm with her courtier Hugh Gilliam, who received his degree here in January. . . . Roy Hahn, another Kentucky product, dropped out to the field to pay his respects to his fellow students. . . . The pretty blonde, who thought that Harry Walker was a high. . . . Our tour of Atlanta with this blonde in company with Harry Walker. . . . Her personal acquaintance with multitudes of Central Kentuckians. . . . The two young ladies from Detroit who attracted so much attention from the Kentucky boys during the trip down on the train. . . . Grant Campbell, another former Kentucky student and his attentiveness to the visiting fellow statesmen. . . . The cats at Mary Cary Maynard's house and the nonsense that Jack Crain and Paul Ledridge carried on during the entire trip. . . . Their remark that "He's a hard man to clean after" and the laugh it brought from the boys on its utterance. . . . The break that your writer made in a remark to one of the Atlanta coeds while searching for a fraternity pin. . . . Ask her what it was. . . . The lady in discussion was Mary Cary Maynard again. . . . The dance at Georgia Tech and the hospitality of the Atlantans. . . . One of the blonde coed who said, "I shoo do wish you all didn't have to go home so quick." Another one who said, "All the Kentucky boys are so-o-o-o handsome," as she gazed longingly at Sigalph Langdon Hay. . . . Still another, Betty Courtney, of Washington Seminary, who bribed us into introducing Red Symphon because she thought, "He was the best dancer she had seen for ages." . . . and another, Jo Adams, who got the rush of the evening and was the bright spot of the dance, despite the fact that she quickly became furious at your correspondent for unearthing a bit of scandal about her less than 20 minutes after the dance had begun. . . . And the red headed Kentuckian who bragged about having a date with her until 3:30 a.m. . . . The $125 that Joe Rupert paid to sit in a private compartment. . . . The visit to Stone Mountain. . . . The rain that followed us to Georgia and fell all during the meet. . . . The water fight on the train and the disgusted looks of Langan "Old Lady" Hay, who appeared to be thinking about his true love, Scotty Chambers, all during the trip. . . . The riding we took from several of the boys because we took time out to write a letter back to the Blue Grass state. . . . The tall brunette singer with the orchestra, who drew the admiration of the Kentucky crowd. . . . and the interest bestowed by Kentucky's star dash man. . . . We marvel at "Shive's" patience with that bunch of bolderous college boys. . . .

Yea, He Thought It Up by Himself

While in Atlanta, Jack Crain, Ralph Carlisle, Ben Willis, Grant Campbell, Red Symphon and your correspondent journeyed out to see that geological wonder, Stone Mountain. . . . As we stood there in the rain marveling at the huge workings of nature, Jack Crain broke forth with this one, "It's a big thing, but they're taking a lot for granite." . . .

The Easter holidays brought forth its share of holiday engagements, etc. . . . A short time ago the engagement of Kadee Temp Faulkner and ATO Curt Willmott was announced and we see by the Sunday papers that another anticipated engagement, that we promised to keep on the Q.T. last fall, finally broke. . . . It is that of Elizabeth Hardin and Red Sullivan. . . . The campus rumor that one of your popular young faculty members is about to take unto himself a wife is without foundation. . . . But from all indications the union between these two will take place before many months pass. . . .

INSTANT INTERVIEWS

By RANDY RASH

QUESTION: "Do you think that the Kentucky racing classic should be called 'Derby' or 'Darby'?"

ANSWER: Kay Kennedy, "Always Derby, I'm from Louisville and I know the correct pronunciation."

ANSWER: Roger Brown, "Derby, because as Joe Quinn says, 'You wouldn't call Al Smith's brown hat a Darby,' now would you?"

ANSWER: Mildred Webb, "Derby, because it sounds mighty darn connected to say Darby."

ANSWER: Paul Slaton, "It should be called Darby because it is an old Kentucky custom."

ANSWER: Jeanne Ireland, "What difference does it make as long as you get there?"

ANSWER: Eugene Warren, "Derby, because it has been called Derby long enough and we need a New Deal."

ANSWER: Dot Whalen, "It should be Derby. I don't see any sense in being 'highhat' about it."

ANSWER: Niel Plummer, "I am a Kentuckian and so it is still Derby no matter what the radio announcers say."

ANSWER: Mary Lou Stark, "It is the English Darby, but the Kentucky Derby."

ANSWER: John Darnell, "The Derby is quite the darby, and it would be very unpleasant to one's ear to hear the Darby is quite the darby. And furthermore we are not foreigners."

An artist friend sends us this—

Costless:

I wish I had bought myself 10,000 Sanforized-Shrunk Arrow Shirts a few years ago and put them in a safety vault, instead of some of the things I went in for.

The Amalgamated Coat Hanger that I bought at 47 is now 17. My Consolidated Cookie Cutter which I took on at 122 is now 19. United Crutch on which I loaded up at 93½ is now 5%. International Medicine Dropper came into my life at 87½--it's now around 20.

All my assets have shrunk save my Arrow shirts. As investments go, they're the only non-fluctuating, non-shrinking, non-choking, --satisfaction-bearing, oomfort-yielding buy that I know.

Sincerely,

With the recent advent of belated spring weather, student tennis devotees will be glad to hear that the University tennis courts have been made ready for play and are now open for the season.

Lee Powers, who has had charge of the courts for a number of years, stated yesterday that four more courts are now under construction and will soon be ready for use. In addition to the eight surfaces already employed, these four new courts will give the University an even dozen, and should take care, in a large measure, of the student and faculty players.

Coach H. H. Downing supervised the first outdoor workout of the varsity tennis team this week. The continued rainy weather has kept the squad at work in the gym annex and considerably cramped its style. The boys are glad to get out in the sunshine for a change and figure to be in good shape for the first meet, with either Berea or Xavier University of Cincinnati, next week.

It may not be hot off the keys but did you know that... Bob Davis, the ex-Dayton high flash who performed so brilliantly with the Kitten football and basketball teams, also plays baseball equally well, and has quite a reputation as an amateur boxer. Joe "Red" Hagan, a teammate of Davis on both football and basketball squads, is another boy who is right at home on the diamond... a number of amateur clubs in Louisville are already seeking his services for the summer months. "Boney" Berger, the newly acquired second baseman of the Cleveland Indians, played with the University of Maryland when the Old Liners eliminated Kentucky's basketball team in the semi-finals of the Southern conference some few years ago... and he was named on the All-America team the same year. "Hans" Wagner, one of Kentucky's two outstanding tackles of last season, has had several offers from professional grid teams... and the other tackle, Stan Nevers won the state title in the discus throw at the Connecticut state interscholastic meet at Yale field a couple of years back... and we saw him do it... Freshman Coach Frank Mosely thinks Arkansas is the hottest place on earth... and he played baseball there all last summer. "Pistol Pete" Kurahek played guard on the freshman football team last season... but he was twice named as second team center on all-star teams selected from players of all the New York city high schools... the football managers have a tough racket... they have to report for practice every day both fall and spring... and hope that they will get the head manager position when they reach the senior year... some of the boys who are giving up their time every day in this pursuit are Gates Macauley, Billy Courtney, Bill Huston, Paul Slaton, "Fatty" Rash and Mack Hughes.

INTRAMURAL

The Intramural program of spring sports which has been looked forward to through so many months, has been delayed considerably because of the continual rains before the Easter holidays. But the past few days give a strong indication that they will all soon be under way.

The first round in all sports is due April 27, at 6 p. m., and all contestants are urged to get in touch with their opponents and arrange to play off their matches as soon as possible. All matches not played off before the deadline will be scratched.

Eighteen teams have been entered in diamond ball with games being played on Stoll field, where two diamonds have been laid out, and at Woodland Park where the small diamond has been drafted. Games at Woodland Park will be played off at 4 p. m., while those held on Stoll field cannot get under way before 5 p. m. due to the field being occupied until that time.

The two opening games were tucked away by the boys representing Sigma Chi and Sigma Phi Epsilon with the Sigma Chi's defeating the Phi Deltas and the Sigma Phi's taking a win over the Delta Chi's. Four postponed games are due to be played off during the week with other scheduled games to follow closely.

A few rulings which are to be followed by the intramural department in connection with diamond ball and which all teams entered should observe closely are as follows:

The two teams with the highest percentage of wins will go to the finals and no ties will be played off, but teams tied will also go into finals. Two forfeitures eliminates a team. As to equipment the intramural department announces that spiked shoes are absolutely forbidden but gloves may be used by basemen since the games will be held on sixty-foot diamonds. All teams should make it a point to be on time because a rule which will be strictly upheld by the department is that if a team does not appear after fifteen minutes of playing time that team shall forfeit. All postponed games must be played off on Saturday afternoons.

Other sports on the intramural spring program which we will hear more of soon are both the singles and doubles in golf, horseshoe, tennis, and all-campus tennis.
